

Minneapolis. The president and his friends are now convinced that Mr. Blaine is evidently working for the nomination and that he means to take it if he can get it.

Hansbrough Confident.
MINNEAPOLIS, June 7.—Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota, who does not believe in the probability of a third candidate, said tonight to a reporter for the United Press: "It has gone too far for that. It will be one of the two candidates whose names are now before the convention and the other down." "An unusual degree of interest is shown in the proceedings and result of this convention all over the country. The delegates are being urged to vote for this or that candidate or a dark horse."

Sherman for McKinley.
New York, June 8.—The Press had a special dated Minneapolis, June 8, 1 a. m., which says that Senator Sherman has written a letter favoring Mr. McKinley. Mr. Sherman's letter is said to be in the hands of the biggest supporters of Harrison. This is regarded as significant. This declaration from one of the great statesmen of the land is simply an announcement that they have got to show up a new man to beat Mr. Blaine.

General Hunted No Better.
MINNEAPOLIS, June 7.—General Hunted of New York, who has been ill, is tonight reported to be no better. His condition continues serious and is attracting much attention. Mrs. Gen. Hunted and her son are expected to arrive here tomorrow morning.

OREGON GOES REPUBLICAN.
Great Difficulty Experienced in Counting the Ballots.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 7.—Oregon has gone republican with the possible exception of attorney general. This is the first trial of the Australian ballot system in the state. The count is tedious and slow on account of local issues in Multnomah county, which includes Portland, and which probably elects a majority of the offices.

No Quorum in the House.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—After a brief debate in the house today Mr. Taylor (republican) of Illinois raised the point of no quorum, and the yeas were appointed. No quorum appearing Mr. McKee (democrat) of Arkansas moved that there be a call of the house. The previous question on the passage of the bill was then ordered. No quorum voted and on motion of Mr. McKee (democrat) of Tennessee the house adjourned till tomorrow.

Seized a Sealing Raider.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—The steamer Alki arrived from Sitka this morning. While the steamer was in Sitka the American sealing schooner Challenger was in Alaska in charge of a United States deputy marshal. The crew was caught raiding the Prydzloff group and the vessel was seized. The captain and crew were tried and the former got ninety days and eleven men thirty days each. The schooner is to be sold to the highest bidder some time this month.

Malt House and Elevator Burned.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 7.—Macklin & Slater's malt house and elevator was destroyed by fire this forenoon. Firemen Louis Frommelt and Herman Hertel were fatally injured by falling walls, and six other men were badly hurt. Loss $100,000.

Expecting a Big Flood.

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—At midnight the Pittsburgh river men were expecting a big flood in the Monongahela river before morning. The marks showed thirteen and one-half feet and rising rapidly. Heavy rains up the river was the cause.

Excitement at Oil City.

OIL CITY, June 8, 1 a. m.—There is great excitement at this hour over a report that the big oil tank on the Clapp farm has just caught fire. There is much apprehension lest there should be another explosion.

FOR KILLING HIS WIFE.

A Noted Gotham Doctor Arrested for Murder.

New York, June 7.—Dr. Robert W. Buchanan of 267 West Eleventh street was arrested yesterday upon a bench warrant on the charge of killing his wife, Annie B. Buchanan, by the administration of poison. The warrant was issued by Judge Martine in the general sessions upon the affidavit of information and belief of District Attorney. Dr. Buchanan was taken to the general sessions building before Judge Martine and remanded to police headquarters in the custody of detectives. Mrs. Buchanan died April 23 at No. 267 West Eleventh street, a house purchased, it is understood, with money given to Dr. Buchanan by her after their marriage. She was attended by Dr. Henry P. Watson, then of No. 264 West Fourth street, and Dr. G. McIntyre of No. 221 West Fourth street. They were not called in until the day preceding her death. Mrs. Childs, a professional nurse, was employed to nurse Mrs. Buchanan only a few hours before her death. The physicians said that Mrs. Buchanan's death was due to cerebral hemorrhage, and Dr. Watson signed a certificate to that effect. About a month after Mrs. Buchanan's death Dr. Buchanan went to Halifax, N. S., and remarried his divorced wife, whom he had not seen, so far as is known, for about two years before his second marriage. It is said, however, that he corresponded with her and occasionally sent her money. It was on the evidence of James M. Smith and William S. Davis of Newark, both of whom claimed to have heard the doctor utter threats against his wife that the arrest was made. Mrs. Childs, the trained nurse, told Dr. Nicol that she remembered seeing Dr. Buchanan giving Mrs. Buchanan a dose of medicine. Mrs. Buchanan became unconscious and died on the following day. The body of the woman was exhumed today and it was found that her death was not due to cerebral hemorrhage. An analysis is being made of the internal organs for poison.

LYNCHERS HANG A WIFE MURDERER.

Austin Porter Meets Death at the Hands of a Kentucky Mob.

GRAYSON, Ky., June 7.—Austin Porter, held at the Carter county jail for wife murder, was taken from the jail at this place yesterday morning at 2 o'clock by an armed mob and lynched. The mob came from Williams in the southern part of the county, some twenty miles from Grayson, and was composed of the neighbors of the victim. The jailer begged that the other prisoners should not be allowed to escape. The leader sent three men in the jail to bring Porter out. "I am gone," said he, as they entered. He begged the jailer to see if they would allow his body to be buried by the side of his dead wife. If not, he wished to be placed by his dead sister's side. He was seized, his arms pinioned, a rope, or rather a cord one-half the size of a clothes-line, placed around his neck, and he was led out and surrounded by a hundred armed and determined men. One look and he knew that all appeal to them was useless. He moaned and cried aloud; the only words that could be distinguished were: "O Lord, have mercy."

"On to the bridge," cried the crowd. He was taken to the railroad bridge, half a mile from town, where the mob had determined to hang him. On reaching it he was asked to confess and told that if he did so they would take him up to Willard, near the scene of his crime. The poor wretch, with the purpose of one hour's lease of life, sobbed: "I did it, but I did not know what I was doing." True to their promise, Porter was placed upon the train and taken to a bridge above Willard, suffering intense agony. Upon reaching the bridge the cord was adjusted around his neck and the end tied to one of the ties of the bridge, and, muttering inaudibly, Porter was pushed off. The rope snapped and Porter's body was precipitated into the water below. Quickly he was fished out, a new knot made, and his body pulled slowly up and left dangling between the bridge timbers and the water of the creek.

HAS FOUND TWO MEN FAITHLESS.

Disappointment in Love Led Grace Maynard to Kill Herself.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Grace Maynard, of 9 University place, committed suicide Sunday night through a disappointment in love. She was last seen alive about 11 o'clock by a clerk employed in a drug store near by. She had been visiting with her sister, Mrs. Belle Codman, who, returning home about midnight from the theater, found the young woman in bed and bled in blood from a bullet wound in her right temple.

At the inquest held by Deputy Coroner Griebow yesterday afternoon Mrs. Codman made the following statement: "Grace was 26 years of age. I last saw her alive about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. On my return last night I found her dead in bed. She was of a very melancholy disposition, and her spells of despondency have been more numerous since a disappointment in love two years ago. At that time she was engaged to be married to a man named O. W. Haywood. After a time the engagement was broken and he married another girl. Grace then grew despondent, and often sat for hours brooding. She made threats a number of times to shoot herself. A few days ago she heard something about her former lover that almost made her frantic."

Further inquiry showed that for several months past Miss Maynard has been engaged to a physician who is now in New York. Lieutenant Bengley of the Stanton Avenue station said that a diary the girl kept referred to the physician as "My dear D—," and made many references to the intensity of their mutual affection. Under a date of two weeks ago an entry is made which indicated that the young woman had just found that the doctor was married man. Later, under another entry, they seem to have met again, and she becomes satisfied with the condition of affairs from his assurance that he loves her only.

The two sisters came here from Hartford, Mich., some months ago and engaged in the millinery business at No. 133 Fifty-third street. Not long ago they sold out, intending after Mr. Codman's health was improved to begin business anew. The flat had been richly furnished. The suicide was a brunette, with refined features of intelligent cast. Her father is a physician at Hartford, Mich.

BREAK IN A LEVEE.

Crops on Thousands of Illinois Acres Likely to Be Ruined.

WARSAW, Ill., June 7.—The levee protecting the drainage districts south of here broke Monday morning at 4 o'clock at a point 13 miles from Warsaw, near the line dividing Adams and Hancock counties. The ferry took hundreds of people, including the leading business men, to the scene of the disaster, and they, supplied with sacks, ropes, axes, shovels and other materials, assisted in stopping the break. They were met by as many more citizens of Canton, and the two parties acted jointly, but there is little hope of stopping the break, which is 100 feet wide, for through it the waters rush madly. Thousands of acres of growing wheat will be flooded and the damage inflicted will reach many thousands of dollars.

Died of Apoplexy.

MILWAUKEE, June 7.—Judge Frank S. Gilson, judge of the superior court of Milwaukee county, expired in his library chair during the morning and was found in death when found by the friends with whom he boarded. The deceased was born in Middlefield, O., in 1836, and located in this state in 1876. His death was due to apoplexy.

Wife Murderer Hanged.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 7.—Edward McMillan, the wife murderer, was hanged in the jail yard here. The drop fell at 10:28 a. m., and in nine minutes he was pronounced dead. His neck was broken. He killed his wife while drunk on February 20, 1891.

Eruption of Vesuvius.

NAPLES, June 7.—The eruption of Mount Vesuvius, which has been noticeable for some time past, is now very greatly increased in violence. Large quantities of lava are issuing from the crater and flowing down through the Atro Cavallo ravine.

Eight Killed by Lightning.

VIENNA, June 7.—During a severe storm Monday night a house in the Austrian Alps was destroyed by lightning and eight persons were killed.

Odd Fellows Dedicate.

ATLANTIC, Ia., June 7.—The dedication of the new odd fellows' temple and the celebration of the consolidation of the Cass and Atlantic lodges occurred Monday with elaborate ceremonies. The new temple is an elegant structure, costing $30,000, and arranged throughout with a view to the suitable workings of the different degrees. Prominent odd fellows from all over Iowa were present and about fifteen lodges from the southwestern part of the state were represented.

Killed Two Men.

BRUSSELS, June 7.—Herr Hochstein, a book seller of Frankfurt, quarreled in a street of this city Monday with two strangers, and finished by shooting them both dead. The crowd who witnessed the tragedy would have lynched Hochstein had he not been promptly protected by the police and conveyed to prison. The exact merits of the dispute which led to the shooting have not yet transpired.

CURIOS COINS.

French Pieces of Which Only a Few Were Struck.

Numerous and coin collectors have interesting objects of search in two coins which belong to the transition period between the French republic and the Second empire, says the Youth's Companion. One of these is an extremely rare coin which was struck off just at the moment of the assumption of the reins of empire by Napoleon III. Only the die for the obverse or head of a new imperial coin had been completed, and by some accident, or possibly by mischievous design, a coin was struck off which bore the head of "Napoleon III, Emperor," on one side, and "French Republic" on the other.

This contradictory coin is of interest to others than numismatists, for it symbolizes in a striking way the many sudden changes which have taken place in French politics in the past century.

With the other coin a singular story is connected. While Louis Napoleon was "prince president," and just before he made himself emperor, a decree was issued ordering a five-franc silver piece to be coined bearing his image.

The dies were made, and one coin was struck off as a sample and sent to the prince president for approval. But some time passed before he examined it. When at last he gave it his attention he was annoyed to find that he had been represented on the coin with a "love-lock," or hooked lock of hair on the temple, which he did actually wear at that period, but which he thought unsuitable to so dignified and permanent a representation of himself as an emperer upon a coin.

The prince president sent for the director of the mint, and ordered him to remove the "love-lock." Then he found that his silence with regard to the piece had been taken for approval, and that the stamping of the coins had commenced.

The work was stopped, and the image deprived of its undignified lock; but the twenty-three coins that had already been struck off were not destroyed, and are now regarded as of great value.

THE GREAT VICTORIA FALLS.

Among the Grandest in the World, Though Hidden.

Livingstone was the first to describe to us the great falls of the upper Zambesi river, which he called the Victoria falls. These falls, says the New York Sun, are among the greatest in the world. The most recent visitor to them is Mr. Dece, a French explorer who is now carrying out ethnological investigations in the upper Zambesi region. He has made some remarks about these falls which give us a different impression of them from that commonly held.

He says that all his predecessors have spoken so enthusiastically of the falls that he hardly dares to express his own opinion. "I will content myself," he adds, "by saying that they would be very grand if one could only see them. The great river, about a mile wide at this place, suddenly contracts and disappears, apparently into the bowels of the earth, falling from a height which I estimate at about four hundred feet, into a gorge which is about five hundred feet wide. The water dashes itself with such violence to the bottom of this gorge that much of it rebounds high in the air, and a column of spray and vapor rises at least three hundred feet above the level of the river. One can see this column, plainly marking the location of the falls, seven miles away, and their roar can be heard for several miles. I could find no position where I could see the bottom of the gorge, and there was a single place where it was possible for me to see as much as six hundred feet in width of the falls at one time. It is impossible to compare the Victoria falls with those of Niagara. The latter are very grand and the former are terrific, but more on account of what we imagine than because of what we can see."

The Difference.

"For the charity fund? I'll do what I can do—you may put my name down for a hundred or two. What! haven't a list?" Then the millionaire drew a coin from his purse. "Here's a dollar for you."—Chicago Tribune.
